

MURDER · Published 1998

Taxidermy Killer Strikes Again: Mother Found Dead

Continuing his reign of terror, the Taxidermy Killer claimed another victim last Saturday, nearby Ann Arbor in Washtenaw County. Sandy Buehler, mother of 3, was found by her husband in their garage as he came home from work.

Police have once again come up empty on any conclusive evidence that could lead to the identity of the Grand Traverse Taxidermist. This has lead to further discord between them and the local populace, as many believe too much time and effort has been wasted on an empty investigation that has turned no real results.

"Every effort has been made to identify and apprehend the Killer," comments police sergeant Gary Cjakowski, "my officers are the best in the state and we will not rest until justice is served.